Goldilocks and the Three Bears part 2

There was a staircase in the bear's house, and Goldilocks thought she should climb up it and see where it led to. So up she went, and when she reached the top she laughed outright, for the Bear's bedroom was the funniest she had ever seen. In the middle of the room stood a great big bed, on the side of it there was a middle-sized bed and on the other side there was a teeny tiny bed.

Goldilocks was sleepy, so she thought she would lie down and have a little nap. First she got upon the great big bed, but it was too hard, so she jumped off and tried the middling-sized bed, but it was so soft that she sank right down into the feather cushions and was nearly smothered. "I will try the teeny tiny bed," she said, and so she did, and it was so comfortable that she soon fell asleep.
